The teenager who opened fire at a Florida high school had been in contact with a school social worker who had tried to warn other staff about his expressed desire to “shoot up the school”. On Monday, Broward County sheriff Scott Israel revealed details of the social worker’s intervention with Nikolas Cruz, 17, during the school year and described how Cruz’s mother died in a tragic incident earlier in the day. “Nikolas Cruz was an individual who had a lot of issues and he was definitely dangerous as it relates to school safety,” Israel said. The sheriff said Cruz had some inappropriate communication with a social worker. Cruz’s mother, Lynda Cruz, died at the scene of a fire on Monday. She was the spouse of a former neighbour who was found shot dead at the scene. Cruz told the sheriff’s office that she was at home and heard the gunshot. Alex Hider in Tampa (@alexhider) School principal says that the shooter has a social worker on campus.

incident on Saturday. A yearbook depicting Cruz with a rifle drawn on it was found in the suspect's vehicle and another photo of him holding a rifle was found in his home. Cruz also has a YouTube channel, called The Mind of Jihad, that includes a number of online posts, mostly about religion. The channel's description said it was dedicated to sharing "stories of Muslims making positive contributions to humanity". The statement from the Marjory Stoneman Douglas school district follows a warning sent to teachers by the Broward sheriff's department on Tuesday, telling them to be on the lookout for students who might be "dangerous" and to report any suspicious people or activity to authorities. "We know this is a difficult and painful time for everyone," the school district said. "However, our families, staff and students should know that Broward county law enforcement officers are working around the clock to ensure the safety of everyone in our community." The sheriff said that the social worker, whom he

Circular dichroism, gel electrophoresis, and wild boar on spatial, temporal, and intensity distribution of ticks in Lithuania. A group of wild boar (Sus scrofa) were introduced to Lithuania to control tick populations in the country's forests in 2010-2013. How the wild boar-tick system is functioning is unclear, though several studies have indicated that the negative effects of wild boar on tick populations are significant. Our study focuses on spatial (cover) and temporal (season) distribution patterns of ticks and assesses the impact of the introduced wild boar on the intensity of infestations on a single farm. We used sentinel tree (Quercus petraea) sampling, visual observations, and tick-infested animals (CI) to monitor the forest and farm-land areas. Ambush surveys of wild boar were performed in the woodland area (forest-land overlap) to estimate spatial and temporal distribution of ticks
