About time! Your WD has arrived! I was impressed with the e-mails you sent me stating that my WD was on its way. I had been waiting and waiting for it to arrive in the mail, but here we are, and it arrived in a couple of days. Your software is quite easy to use and I was able to do everything I wanted to do without any issues. It took me less than an hour to install it and to create an automated back-up. I'd like to thank you for the software, it was well worth the wait! I highly recommend it! Please keep up the good work! Thank you for submitting a testimonial for WD Drive Manager. Your submission is posted below. WD Drive Manager Windows XP Please make sure the information is not confidential and is appropriate for publication. WD Drive Manager Windows XP WD Drive Manager is a computer software developed by WINDOWS SOFTWARE CO. My name is David and I live in the United Kingdom. On Thursday 14th April 2013, I received an e-mail stating that my WD hard drive had arrived. This was a bit of a let-down as I have been waiting for it for the past week, and I had been looking forward to being able to back-up my PC and storage from the drive. I didn't immediately find the software that I had been waiting for as the e-mail didn't say anything about the software. After 2 weeks, I finally did discover WD Drive Manager. My PC was performing poorly, so I decided to back-up my hard drive and do some repair work. I hoped that this would help my PC speed up. I created a new folder and opened the WD Drive Manager to complete the installation. The first step involves you selecting the

WD Drive Manager also allows you to back up your Mac files and data to any external USB hard drives or network folder, and perform drive maintenance and optimization. Key WD Drive Manager features: ? Protect your data against accidental deletion of files or whole drives; ? Perform drive health and optimization and the incremental back-up of your files from various external hard drives or network folders; ? Track current and historical disk statistics from listed hard drives in WD Drive Manager; ? Permit you to protect your data against power failure and accidental system shutdown by configuring "Smart Safe" or "Power Safe" drives and drive groups; ? Generate or edit a clean installation script of your local hard drives; ? Easily activate remote hard drives/drives over network; ? Stop your Mac from over-writing to external hard drives, including SD cards and USB flash drives; ? Allows you to set up your external hard drives as network drives. WD Drive Manager can also be used as a standalone Mac application for protecting and monitoring hard drives, which is good for both professionals and home users.Q: How do I use "d:" instead of "z:" for deprecated but still required APIs? I'm using the Google Places API for Fused Location Provider v2 to retrieve a list of places nearby. The API docs suggest using d: as the prefix if the place is required, but I'm getting ReferenceError: Can't find variable: d:. Example code: navigator.geolocation.getCurrentPosition(success, error); var options = { enableHighAccuracy: true, timeout: 30000, }; navigator.geolocation.getCurrentPosition(success, error); var options = { enableHighAccuracy: true, timeout: 30000, }; How do I use d: for deprecated but required APIs? A: I need to specify a legacy option. navigator.geolocation.getCurrentPosition(success, error, { enableHighAccuracy: true, enableLowAccuracy: true, fail
