Re4s Resident Evil 5 .Q: How can I disable the closing of a form in django while executing a script in the view I have a form with a submit button. When you press that button it executes a view and executes some code which closes the form. Is there a way to disable the button's ability to close the form, so I can add code in the view to stop the execution of the code. If this is not possible, is there any workaround to this problem? Thanks. A: Just call the.cancel() method on the form: if request.POST: form = MyForm(request.POST, instance=obj) if form.is_valid(): form.save() return HttpResponseRedirect('/success/url/') else: form.cancel() # stop the user from submitting the form return render_to_resp(request, 'form.html', context_instance=RequestContext(request), context_instance=RequestContext(request), context_instance=RequestContext(request)) Q: What does the "///" sign mean in a Lisp source code? I'm learning Lisp. I came across a code snippet where a Lisp program was commented with the "///" sign. What does it mean? (defun reverse-string (str) ///reverse a string (loop for i from 0 to (string-length str) append (reverse (subseq str i)) ///and the new string back to the user ///I tried to find its meaning but I did not get any success )
