W Nilsson, S A Riedel, Solutions Manual And Electric Circuits With The Complete Solutions To All Of. B.A new highly accurate calibration of the quantum mechanical predictions of the semiempirical method. A new ultrahighaccuracy calibration of the quantum
semiempirical (SE) method is presented. The SE method is a combination of the Hartree-Fock method with effective core potentials (ECP) with or without valence polarization. The calibration is based on a fit to the SE predictions at the CCSD(T) level for the total atomization energies of the few-atom molecules to four digits (11). The method is used to reproduce the SE method, single-point

SE calculations, and ECP/ECP-MBD (ECP/ECP-MP2) calculations by the same computer program. The fact that the SE predictions are reproduced with an accuracy of better than 1 kJ mol<sup>-1</sup> (permanent multipoles) for many systems demonstrates that the method is highly accurate. The hydrogen-bonded complexes of the water dimer and the NH<sub>3</sub>-H<sub>2</sub>O complex were used as examples of compounds for the validation. For the compounds, the differences between the SE and CCSD(T) values for the total atomization energies (including zero-point energies) are within the statistical error, and are in excellent agreement with recent computational and experimental studies. The good
