poedIRC Crack Keygen is designed to make IRC easy to use. The program takes a minimalist approach, meaning it doesn't clutter the screen with thousands of dialogs and configurations. The 'IRC' name is obviously an acronym for 'Internet Relay Chat', but you don't have to worry about that kind of thing. poedIRC is similar to Xchat in that it shows you, in the bottom of the screen, the channels, channels, channels, etc. you are in. It uses a color scheme to make this even easier. If you compare the two programs, pIRC is easier to use and requires less effort to do the same thing, but Xchat has a few more features like DCC Chat. Installation: Important! Before installing it, you must read the instructions and carefully follow them. To avoid any possible damage to your system, try it out first, on a test machine that you do not care about. It might not work correctly on your system, so you must have a complete back-up of your data and be prepared to lose everything. Always backup your data! You can always use your restore point in Windows XP or Vista, or if you have an Ubuntu Live CD or LiveUSB you can try it there. When it asks you if you want to Install the icons, select OK. After the installation, pIRC will open up. If you want to start using it, you will be presented with a simple Main Window that will welcome you to the program. You should now be able to start using pIRC. The first thing you should do is by typing in your nick and pressing Return, it should start showing you everything you're in. Start typing in your nick and pressing Return. It will show you everything it finds you in. When that's done, pIRC will tell you how to edit some of the configuration. Click OK to exit that and go to the main menu. Here you have many options. poedIRC is an IRC client, like xIRC, and Pidgin, but improved in many ways. It has a more friendly GUI, more powerful features, faster loading times, has more memory, and much better network detection. poedIRC has most of the standard IRC features, including DCC chat, CTCP, several pretty themes, and Private Messages. Also, you can set a specific color for all messages, or all private messages, or all DCC chat etc. poedIRC is also much faster than the other IRC clients, including xIRC and Pidgin. Because it is both written in Java, and uses less RAM than Pidgin, it is much more memory efficient, and loads much faster than the above-mentioned IRC clients. And has several other features too, including UTF8 support, and a GEOIP database. poedIRC also has some unique features, like being able to connect to the IRC servers from a specific URL, and the ability to get information about what channels and servers are on IRC (and IP addresses for the servers). For the best IRC experience, poedIRC includes a few extra features: - When your nickname is said in a channel it is highlighted (on mouseover), - When in another channel it is highlighted (on mouseover), - Identifies if your nickname is said in a channel, - Identifies if your nickname is said in a channel, and if it is, which one it is in (channel name), and - Identifies which channels you are in and which server your nickname is on. Videos: pIRC - PoedIRC In this video you can see several features that pIRC is capable of, among others: - Regular channel colours - Custom private message colours - Highlighting when your nickname is said in a channel, - Identifying channels and servers you are on - Identifying if your nickname is said in a channel - Identifying which channel your nickname is in, and if it is a specific one, and if so, which server it is on - Identifying that your nickname is said in a channel and that it is said in the "standard", or "official" channel of a server gpoedIRC - Java GUI IRC Client In this video I show off the features of gpoedIRC. In addition, the handles that are displayed are colored according to your style and background color. Customize with categories, descriptions, and other flags. Reviews: Sugar Icon Software "This is a good app. There are a lot of small adjustments to make for every network and I must say it did take me quite a while to get the network running I work at. But after I got everything configured it was great. My biggest suggestion is to be sure to clear the history for every network after you are done configuring, that way if you forget to change the image or the title, it won't screw it up. I've had some weird things happen before, when I forgot to clear the history and it still stayed put. That aside it worked great. It saved my butt at work and it saved a lot of time and labor." "This is a great app! It makes it super simple for people new to IRC to connect and create a custom banner. It also has great features such as hiding handles from certain channels (very helpful for private chats!), deleting handles, searching for handles, and the ability to filter for the color, channel name, or host name of the handle. Also, it auto-saves so you don't have to worry about your settings! I'd give this a 5 star if I could! I used to deal with tags and manually changing images to get banners looking right. Not anymore! :) " "I will say that this is a very simplistic client. It can be annoying that, at a custom layout, it doesn't show the channel previews unless you click on it, but that's understandable. Once you've made your layout, the channel listings are actually helpful, and I like that it has a command system for moving channels, marking channels, and creating channels. So if you are not using channels, it's a great client." "I am quite fond of this program. I enjoy the user-friendly interface. I hope they can add more types of chats. Even to a beginner, the user interface is not too complicated or difficult. So, if you want to make a personalized banner for IRC, this is the best choice." "I found that this one is great, because you can filter what handles
