Renegade allows you to slide up and down the game map at will, giving players an idea of when they should be running and when they should be sitting back and taking it easy. It is also making the game more exciting. You can take two different paths to the same target and the enemies response can vary depending on the path you take. This means that you will be forced to adapt when you encounter the enemy instead of the computer giving you the information while you hit them with your neural override.
