What's New In GSA Radio Stream Recorder?

GSA Radio Stream Recorder is a powerful and easy-to-use program designed to help you record online streams in MP3 format. The application supports more than 40 popular online streaming services, such as Last.fm, Live365, Pandora, Rdio, Rhapsody, Spotify and TuneIn. The program allows you to search for new radio stations by genre or to add them directly to the list. It will also display the song currently being played, a short description of the station and a link to the artist's official web page. For each radio station, the program will also display the duration and file size of the saved MP3 song. The program can be configured to automatically download information about the song being played and save it to the MP3's ID3 tag. If you already know which radio station you want to record music from, you can simply enter the stream's URL and add it to the processing list.

You can also import an entire directory that contains songs you do not wish to download. GSA Radio Stream Recorder supports a wide range of audio quality options to choose from and lets you make recording filters to avoid downloading songs that you already have. The program also offers links to the artist's official web page, Facebook profile, Wikipedia page and many other relevant websites. System Requirements: Windows: Overview If you are in the habit of listening to online radio stations and often find yourself wishing you could record the songs being played, you may want to try GSA Radio Stream Recorder. It is a simple and straightforward application, designed to help you capture songs from online streams and save them to your computer as MP3 files. Built-in search function If you already know which radio station you want to record music from, you can simply enter the stream's URL and add it to the processing list. However, the application includes a function that allows you to search for new radio stations. All you need to do is select the genre you are interested in to have the program list all the streams that match the specified criteria. You can view the song that is currently being played, a short description of the station, the number of listeners and the audio bitrate. Record songs from multiple stations simultaneously The application allows you to add any number of streams and record audio from all of them at the same time. It displays the song currently being played, as well as the duration and size of the saved file. GSA Radio Stream Recorder automatically downloads and displays information about the song currently being played and saves the data to the MP3 file's ID3 tag. The program also offers links to the artist's official web page, Facebook profile, Wikipedia page and many other relevant websites
